The Senior Independent Study (I.S.) at The College of Wooster is a year-long project with one-on-one support and guidance by a faculty advisor. For studio art majors, the culmination of this in-depth experience is a one-person exhibition, and the group exhibition features a selection from these senior shows.

Additionally, every year the College hosts the Senior Research Symposium, an all-day, campus-wide celebration of Independent Study. Students in the group exhibition will be present in the Sussel Gallery from 1:00–3:00 p.m. during this symposium on April 29 to discuss their art, and art history seniors will present poster sessions in the Burton D. Morgan Gallery at the same time.
